

Incredible India

- By Dhruv Nair

Hello! Namaste! Let me take you on a joyride,
Across a country so wide, let me be your guide.
Mountains, jungles, deserts and plains,
Hundreds of rivers forming her veins.

Holy Cow! I didn't see,
as you crossed the roads so carefree.
Palaces of Kings. huts of farmers,
We also see some piping snake charmers.

Proud Peacocks with a hundred eyes,
Terrifying Tigers with their fiery stripes.
Make way for the Enormous Elephants,
with their Terrible Tusks and Mighty Memories!

You may think that this is kind of odd,
but the people of India pray to different gods.
There are gods that create, gods that preserve, and gods that find the bad guys and give them what they deserve.

The food here is made very nicely,
But it can be quite spicy.
For all of you who think curry is yummy,
Hold onto your tummy, believe me I am not being funny.

Most people here are loud & naughty,
Weddings especially can be very haughty.
Colourful Clothes, Fun Festivals and Rowdy games of Rummy,
Make sure we are always out of money.

But the best part of India for me,
Is the nice spices that come from different trees.
Spice in the air, spice on my plate,
Spice in the movies and even in our poetry.
